Technology

ForeSight Golf's Sim-in-a-Box is the most complete all-in-one virtual golf package available today. It is paired with the best launch monitor in the industry, the GC Quad, so you not only get true-to-life game performance indoors, but you get the game's best performance analysis tool for outdoors as well!

The GC Quad launch monitor uses 4 high speed cameras to capture ball and club face data. Possible ball data include ball speed, launch angle, azimuth (determines if you pull or push the ball from your starting line), total spin, and spin-tilt axis (the axis that the golf ball rotates around to create shoot curvature and lift). Possible club data includes club speed, impact point, angle of attack, club path, delivered face angle, delivered lie angle, impact loft, and closure rate. All these data points, along with insight from one of Glacier's Golf Professionals, will give a golfer the best opportunity to improve their game.
